LAW POINTS.

A druggist may be convicted of maintaining a liquor nuisance, though having a permit to sell liquor, holds the supreme court of Kansas.

The giving of a new note for an existing indebtedness will not of itself release collateral security held for payment of such indebtedness, holds the supreme court of Nebraska.

A child of divorced parents is a ward of the court and must not be removed from the state by the parent to whom the court has awarded the custody, holds the appellate court of Illinois.

A reservation of title in a conditional sale of goods is valid as between the parties and those succeeding to their rights, with knowledge of such reservation, either personally or from the records.

A decree or order for alimony in a divorce proceeding is not a debt within the meaning of that term as used in the constitution prohibiting imprisonment for debt, holds the supreme court of Washington.

A bequest in a will for the purchase of books on spiritualism, to be free to all, is held by the court of chancery of New Jersey in the case of Jones versus Watford (50 Atl. Rep. 180) to be a charitable gift which a court of equity will enforce.

How They Differed.

During the last term of the late Zeb Vance in the United States senate his brother, Robert Vance, was elected to represent the Asheville (N. C.) district in the lower branch of congress. One Sunday morning soon after Robert made his appearance in Washington a friend asked the senator if he and Robert agreed on the subject of religion as well as they did on politics.

"No," replied the senator; "Bob is a Methodist and believes in falling from grace, but never falls, while I am a Presbyterian and don't believe in falling from grace, but am all the time falling!"—New York Times.

Good Reason For Selling.

"I notice," said the man who had called in answer to an advertisement, "you state that you wish to sell out this business and can give good reason for doing so. May I ask what is your reason?"

"Certainly," answered the other man. "The reason why I want to sell out this business is that I'm not making any money at it."—Chicago Tribune.

VAGARIES OF THE TIDES.

Curious Currents in the Ocean and its Offshoots.

There are as many vagaries in the waters as in the winds. Why, for instance, should three great ocean currents send their warm waters across the wide Pacific, Atlantic and around the Cape of Good Hope? There have been many theories advanced to solve the problem of their origin, but all have proved failures. Other and equally mysterious currents exist in well nigh all parts of the world. The tides are so erratic in different parts of the world that one hesitates to accept the theory that the moon controls them in all cases.

It is on record that the sea has run for weeks out of the Java sea through the strait of Sunda and thence back again for a like period without any perceptible rise or fall during those times. Then there is the equatorial current that flows into the Caribbean sea, the ever flowing current to the eastward around Cape Horn, the cold stream flowing from the icy regions of the north past Newfoundland and Nova Scotia and along the American coast to the extreme end of Florida, the continual current running with a velocity of from four to five knots an hour through the strait of Gibraltar into the Mediterranean sea, the swift current running across the rocks and shoals of the end of Billiton island, which apparently starts from nowhere and ends somewhere in the vicinity of the same place, and the current which, starting half way up the China sea, runs from two to three knots an hour to the northeast and finally ends abruptly off the north end of Luzon.

Then we have those tidal vagaries known the world over as bores. Residents on Severn side are familiar with them, and those that run up the Hugg and Irrawaddy rivers from the sea to the limit, often tearing ships from their anchorage, originate nobody knows where or why. The rush of waters in the bay of Fundy is nothing but a huge bore sweeping all before it up to the head of the bay till the waters have risen to the height of fifty or sixty feet. Off Southampton we have the double tides, while at Singapore it has been observed for days at a time that there has been but the one rise and fall in the twenty-four hours. The tides may be and very often appear as though they were "moonstruck," but they certainly are not controlled with hard and fast rules by that or any other body.—London Shipping World.

Private Gambling in Russia.

There is a good deal of gambling in society in England, but it is nothing to what goes on in Russia, says the London Daily Friend. Vint, preference and roulette are the principal games. The second is the most popular in army circles, while many ladies of the highest rank keep roulette tables and regular "revue," on which play goes on for very high stakes. As is usually the case at roulette, the bank mostly wins, and the hostess takes good care to keep the bank.

One of the most notorious of these private dens is run by two ladies of the highest rank and connections. Only the fine fleur of the society of St. Petersburg are admitted, and the entrance is eagerly sought. The stakes are high, the plunging often desperate, and men have been known to leave these salons in a financial condition which approaches ruin. The princesses, however, make a handsome income out of the bank, and no one thinks the worse of them.

How High Can a Balloon Rise?

The altitude that may be attained by a balloon depends, first, upon its size; secondly, upon the filling of gas, and, thirdly, upon the weight being carried. A balloon of ordinary size, 45,000 cubic feet, carrying the smallest weight—that is, one person—when filled with illuminating gas may reach 20,000 feet, but when filled with hydrogen 27,000 feet. In order to ascend higher we first of all need a bigger balloon.

One may say it was a happy chance that the Royal Meteorological institute of Berlin was provided with a balloon of the unusual dimensions of 300,000 cubic feet. The German emperor furnished $500 for making experiments with it, and the Meteorological institute had to make use of the opportunity for studying the highest regions of atmosphere.—Harper's Magazine.

A Bad Way to Feed Birds.

It is quite a common practice for persons owning pet birds to teach them to take bits of sugar or other food liked by the bird from the lips. It has been discovered that the trainers of young birds in Europe frequently contract in this way a peculiar parasitic growth on the throat and lungs that is frequently fatal, and a warning has been issued by French physicians which may well be heeded by any one feeding birds from mouth to beak.

A Psychological Deduction.

UNCLE SAM'S MONEY.

THE SAFEGUARDS THAT HEDGE ABOUT ITS MANUFACTURE.

Care With Which Even the Shavings of the Peculiar Paper Used Are Handled—Counting and Re-counting the Treasured Sheets.

Uncle Sam's paper money has its birth in the bureau of engraving and printing in Washington. Here a corps of engravers cut its lines into plates of steel. Five hundred men and women are in one room. It is the largest printing office in the world. Here are struck from these plates the notes which we give the butcher and the baker. Each steel plate when not in actual use is stored away in a great bureau proof vault to which only the highest officials know the combination. At the side of each printing press is a little indicator like a bicycle cyclometer, which keeps tally of every piece of paper money printed. Thus Uncle Sam kept informed as to the exact number of paper notes of all denominations which leave his presses daily.

If there is any secret which Uncle Sam jealously guards, it is the process of manufacturing the fiber paper upon which his money notes are printed. He pays a million dollars a year for securing and printing the paper, and under the surveillance of a government agent. The paper is manufactured of the finest rags, cleaned, boiled and mashed into pulp. As it is rolled into thin sheets silk threads are introduced into it by a secret process. These are the distinguishing marks making imitation of the paper well nigh impossible.

The sheets of paper, already counted twice and placed in uniform packages at the paper mill, are stored in a treasury vault and issued to the bureau of engraving and printing as wanted. Before leaving the treasury they are counted three times more, and the receiving official at the bureau must receipt for them. Then the bundles are unwrapped, and the sheets are counted twenty-eight times by a corps of women. This is to insure that each printer gets the recorded number—no more, no less. Before any employee of the division in which this paper is kept can leave for home each night he must exhibit to a watchman at the door a pass certifying that every fragment of every sheet passing through his fingers has been accounted for.

If one sheet of this precious paper be lost, the entire force of men and women having access to the room where the misplacement has occurred are kept in, like so many school children, to find it. Each sheet is issued from the vault for the printing of a definite amount of money upon it. If the lost sheet were intended to ultimately represent $4,000 worth of notes, the group of employees to whom the responsibility of its misplacement has been traced must make good that amount if they cannot locate it within a reasonable time.

Twenty-four times more are the sheets containing the printed money counted after leaving the presses. Then they are sealed in packages of 1,000, placed on racks in a drying room of 130 degrees temperature, unpacked, thoroughly examined, smoothed in powerful hydraulic presses and packed in wooden cases. These cases are hauled to the treasury in an ironed wagon. Six guards, heavily armed, accompany this wagon whenever it makes a trip.

No attempt to steal Uncle Sam's money while undergoing any of these stages of manufacture has yet been detected. As a matter of fact, the money would be practically useless, for its printing is not completed until after it makes this guarded journey to the treasury. There the finishing touch is added in the printing of the colored seal upon the face of each note. With this six sealing presses the same precautions are taken as with the two hundred and fifty big money presses in the other building. Each sheet coming from the former has a row of notes printed upon it. The sheets are put through small machines, operated by girls, who cut out the individual notes. Even the small strips, falling like shavings from their machines, must be carefully collected, sent to the bureau of engraving and printing and there boiled into pulp. An employee found with even one of these ribbons of waste paper is liable to imprisonment for fifteen years and a fine of $5,000.

Between these different processes the paper money has been counted and re-counted six additional times. Finally the single notes are placed in stacks of 100, with all of the blue numbers printed on their faces in sequence. They are then wrapped in paper, labeled, sealed with red wax and stored in the great treasury vaults. Thus each piece of paper money now in circulation has been officially counted sixty-three times.

In our printings the system of accounting for the blank metal out of which the finished coins are stamped, of keeping tally on the coloring machines' work, of counting the finished product, of packing it, of sealing it in cloth bags, of transporting it under guard, of counting it many times again and finally of storing it away is practically the same.

There is not a day in the year when any one of the seven great treasury vaults does not contain in coin, bullion, notes, certificates or bonds sufficient to make you or me one of the richest of the world's multimillionaires. The most capacious of these strong boxes are in the basement of the treasury. A large guard of men—mostly old soldiers, commanded by a captain and lieutenant—watches them day and night. These guardians are heavily armed, and they patrol their beats every quarter hour throughout the night.—Saturday Evening Post.

HEALTH VERSUS STRENGTH

A Good Stomach Is Worth More Than Muscular Power.

The strong man was doing some of his most sensational "stunts." Evidently his performance was free from trickery. The muscles spoke for that, and there were ease and enjoyment in all his movements.

"What a splendid fellow!" exclaimed a college student in a front row to his older companion. "I'd give all I expect ever to know of the classics in exchange for that physique. Just think what it means—unlimited endurance and strength. With that and a fair share of brains, there isn't anything a man couldn't accomplish."

The older man smiled at the youngster's enthusiasm.

"You're doing very well as it is," he said. "The battle may generally be to the strong and skillful, but it isn't just muscular strength that counts. To tell you the truth, you've inherited something that is worth more to you than all the mere muscle you could put on in a lifetime. I mean your stomach."

"Yes, of course; that's important, but—"

"It's everything, my boy. Now, suppose I should tell you that that big fellow up there is in greater danger of collapse than you are likely to be if you take fair care of yourself and exercise in moderation."

"How is that possible? He is the picture of health and strength."

"And what do you say to this fellow?" asked the physician, drawing a photograph from his pocket. It was the likeness of an athlete not much the physical inferior of the strong man.

"This chap," continued the medical expert, "came to me for treatment recently. He needed it. The flesh was literally falling off him. He was losing a pound a day. You see, he had suddenly collapsed."

"What was the trouble?"

"Stomach. I'm not telling you anything new, but it's astonishing how much an elemental truth is overlooked. A man is no stronger than his stomach."

"If your stomach isn't far better than that of most Americans, look out! This patient of mine had changed his food, and it came near costing him his life. So don't be too quick to envy the strong man, and go ahead with your classics, not forgetting twenty minutes or so a day of well directed exercise."—New York Herald.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Onions may be readily transplanted if growing too thick.

Weeds should not be allowed to grow or crusts to form around young fruit trees.

Do not buy any kind of fruit trees or plants simply because they are cheap.

With all transplanting it is important to see that the soil is well filled in around the roots.

Prune spurs to one developed bud, for the nearer the old wood the higher flavored the fruit.

A weak solution of poultry droppings is a wonderful stimulant of plant growth. It may be used weekly with good effect.

Only well rotted manure should be applied around the grapevines. Fresh manure excites the growth, but does not mature it.

Quince trees should be mulched as a protection against extreme heat and cold, as the roots are small and usually near the surface.

In selecting trees to grow as a wind-break it is quite an item to have them of a close growing habit and of as near perpetual foliage as possible. Plant a double row.

Turkish Delight.

The oriental sweet called "Turkish delight" that travelers in the east are sure to taste is not difficult to make. Have ready an ounce of gelatin, preferably the clear imported sheet variety, which has been soaked for two hours in a very little cold water. Bring to a boil in a porcelain pot a pound of granulated sugar and half a cupful of cold water, adding the gelatin, and boil till the mixture dropped in cold water can be held in the finger. After it has cooled steadily for fifteen minutes add the juice of one lemon and a tablespoonful of brandy. Pour to cool in clean tin which has been wet in cold water, cutting the mixture as it stiffens into squares like caramels. Each piece is dusted with powdered sugar or rolled in waxed paper.—New York Post.

No Proof Necessary.

Colonel C. L. Colquhoun of Louisiana was halted on the street one day by a gentleman who evidently did not know him.

"Can you tell me," asked the unknown, "who is the best lawyer in town?"

"I am, sir," replied the colonel without hesitation.

The man looked surprised.

"Excuse me," he said; "I should like to have you prove it."

"Don't have to prove it, sir," thundered the colonel; "I admit it."—New York Times.

BREAD AND BRIDES.

THE PARTS VIANDS PLAY IN MARRIAGE CEREMONIES.

Sweetheart Cakes of a Dutch Damsel—Egyptian Bridgrooms Must Work For Their Supper—Wine in China—Married by Candy.

The important part which different viands play in marriage ceremonies makes rather an interesting story.

For example, the Swedish bride fills her pocket with bread, which she dispenses to every one she meets on her way to church, every place she gives away averting, as she believes, a misfortune.

On the threshold of her new home a bride in Serbia is presented with a plate of bonbons, one of which she and the bridegroom share between them, the divided bonbon signifying that no bitterness shall divide them. A sieve of wheat corn is also given to the bride. Of this she takes three handfuls, throws it over her head, emptying the sieve upon the ground. The scattered corn denotes that the bride brings joy and prosperity into her new home. The bride is still outside the door, nor can she enter until she has placed two loaves of bread beneath her arms and taken a bottle of wine into her hands. With these emblems she at length crosses the threshold of her future home. At the first meal of the newly married pair bread and wine must be taken by both to denote that thenceforward all they have shall be equally divided between them and that their married life shall be passed in unity and fidelity.

A Russian wedding culminates in the betrothal feast, at which the bride elicits in return for a long tress of hair which she has given to the bridegroom receives bread and salt and an almond cake.

In Holland if a young man is in love with a girl and wishes to ask her hand in marriage he buys a small sweet cake and, wrapping it up in soft paper, proceeds to the house of his innamorata. He is ushered into the midst of the family circle. Without a word he walks up to the young lady and lays the cake on the table before her. The rest of the family affect not to notice anything unusual and continue their work or their reading. The young man turns aside and talks to the father or mother on some very ordinary subject, keeping his eyes eagerly fixed on the girl while he is conversing. If she accepts his offer, she takes up the cake and eats it. If she is a coquettish dame, she tortures the young man by turning it over and playing with it before she decides to taste it and then captures him by eating it to the last crumb. If, on the other hand, she wishes to have nothing more to do with her admirer, she puts it back on the table. The young man takes up the cake and, with a "Vaarvol byzamen," leaves the house. The matter is then kept a profound secret by both families, and the outer world never hears of it. In place of a wedding cake in Holland wedding candies are given—"braud zulkers" they are called. They are passed around by children and are served in flower trimmed baskets.

Bride pudding is the name of the piece of resistance served at a Norse peasant wedding. This is not brought on the table until the last day of the festivities, three or five days being given up to feasting and merrymaking. The appearance of the bride pudding is the signal of dismissal, and at the close of the feast the guests say farewell, presenting at the same time their gifts, which consist of cash. This the bride receives, the bridegroom presenting each donor with a glass of wine.

Partaking of two tiny glasses of wine is all the ceremony necessary to make a marriage in some Chinese provinces, provided a quantity of fireworks are set off. These are to wake the "great joys" from his sleep that he may witness the ceremony.

At a Hebrew wedding man and wife slip from one cup of wine, symbolizing participation in the joys and pain of earthly life. The emptied goblet is placed on the floor and crushed into a thousand pieces by the bridegroom, who thus shows that he will put his foot on all evils that may enter the family circle.

At an Egyptian wedding feast meat is not eaten because of the belief that it would lead to future bickerings between them. Eggs, fruits and sweets are served. The first meal in the new house cannot be touched until, after every device known to the bridegroom, the bride has been at last induced to speak. Once she utters a word, he claps his hands, and supper is brought to them.

Married by candy is the plan in Burma. Of all marriage rites this takes the palm for coarseness and sweet simplicity. Here the dusky lady, takes the initiative. Seeing a youth who pleases her, she offers him a sweet. If he accepts her proposal, he promptly eats the token of affection, and they are thereby made man and wife. In the act of eating alone this most primitive rite consists. If the youth is not favorably disposed, he remarks with all gallantry that that particular candy is not to his taste, and the matter is ended. In Mandary three weeks after a marriage ceremony bring the bridegroom a bowl of rice, a vessel of wine and a bowl, much of which collation is sacrificed to the spirits of ancestors.

A Bagoda bride—in the Philippines—if she be good looking and the daughter of a warrior, is sold by her father for about $80, which sum is not given in money, but in vegetables and chickens. One way of estimating such things is at the price of a brass gong. Such a gong is worth thirty silver dollars, and it is a valuable maiden indeed who will bring two brass gongs.—What to Eat.

HOW THE CHINESE GET RAIN

Some Peculiar Practices in Vogue in the Celestial Kingdom.

It is one of the peculiarities of the Chinese that, while they have developed elaborate philosophies, none of them has led to any confidence in the uniformity of nature. Neither the people nor their rulers have any fixed opinion as to the cause of rainfall. The plan in some provinces when the need of rain is felt is to borrow a god from a neighboring district and petition him for the desired result. If his answer is satisfactory, he is returned to his home with every mark of honor; otherwise he may be put out in the sun as a hint to wake up and do his duty. A bunch of willow is usually thrust into his hand, as willow is sensitive to moisture.

Another plan in extensive use is the building of special temples in which are wells containing several iron tables. When there is a scarcity of rain, a messenger starts out with a tablet marked with the date of the journey and the name of the district making the petition. Arriving at another city, he pays a sum of money and is allowed to draw another tablet from the well, throwing in his own by way of exchange. On the return journey he is supposed to eat only bran and travel at top speed day and night. Sometimes he passes through districts as greatly in need of rain as his own. Then the people in these places waylay him and, temporarily borrowing his tablet, get the rain intended for another place.

Prayers are usually made in the fifth and sixth months, when the rainfall is always due, and a limit of ten days is set for their effective operation. Under such conditions rain usually falls during the prescribed time. When the prayers are in progress, the umbrellas, among other objects, comes under the ban. In some provinces foreigners have been mobbed for carrying this harmless article at that time.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A THIEF AMONG THE ANGELS

Spurgeon Corrected His Opinion of What He Might Do.

One day the mayor of Cambridge, who had tried to curb Mr. Spurgeon's tendencies to sensationalism, inquired of him if he had really told his congregation that if a thief got into heaven he would begin picking the angels' pockets.

"Yes, sir," the young preacher replied, "I told them that if it were possible for an angel to go to heaven without having the nature changed he would be none the better for being there, and then, by way of illustration, I said that were a thief to get in among the glorified he would remain a thief still, and he would go around the place picking the angels' pockets."

"But, my dear young friend," asked the mayor seriously, "don't you know that the angels haven't any pockets?"

"No, sir," replied young Spurgeon, with equal gravity, "I did not know that, but I am glad to be assured of the fact from a gentleman who does know. I will take care to put it all right the first opportunity I get."

The next Monday morning Spurgeon walked into the mayor's place of business and said to him cheerfully, "I set that matter right yesterday, sir."

"What matter?" he inquired.

"Why, about the angels' pockets."

"What did you say?"

"Oh, sir, I just told the people I was sorry to say that I had made a mistake the last time I preached to them, but that I had met a gentleman, the mayor of Cambridge, who had assured me that the angels had no pockets, so I must correct what I had said, as I did not want anybody to go away with a false notion about heaven. I would therefore say that if a thief got among the angels without having his nature changed he would try to steal the feathers out of their wings!"—Hornet.

Black Mirrors.

Crystal gazing is still popular, but the very latest device in use is a black mirror in which the sibyl say they can see many things. These little black mirrors come from India, where a spot of ink has always been a favorite vehicle for divination. The native boy who has "the second sight" is told to look fixedly at a spot of ink, which is poured into his hand. The black mirror is said to be every bit as good as the ink, and it is certainly more cleanly. It is made of a piece of black glass set in a wooden frame and is small enough to be held inside the hand.—London Chronicle.

Greene—Do you suppose Ketchum is honest, or has he designs on me, do you think?

Brown—Why, what has he been doing now?

Greene—He borrowed an umbrella at my house last night, and he returned it the first thing this morning. It looks suspicious, don't you think?—Boston Transcript.

An Obliging Husband.

"Why do you offer such a large reward for the return of that ugly dog?"

"To please my wife."

"But such a reward is sure to bring him back."

"No, it won't. He's dead."—San Francisco Chronicle.

More Interesting.

"Were you interested in that account of the Washington man who suddenly disappeared?"

"Well, I'd have been more interested in an account of a man who gradually disappeared."—New York World.

In 1694 the capital of the Bank of England was £1,200,000. It is now £14,500,000.

Dangerous If Neglected.

Burns, cuts and other wounds often fail to heal properly if neglected, and become troublesome sores. Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve prevents such consequences. Even where delay has aggravated the injury Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve effects a cure. "I had a running sore on my leg thirty years," says H. C. Hartly, Yanktown, Ind. "After using many remedies, I tried Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve. A few boxes healed the sore." Cures all skin diseases. Piles yield to it at once. Beware of counterfeits. Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.

HUNDRED MILE COAST.

The Oroya Railway in Peru Disturbed Itself in Many Ways.

Lord Ernest Hamilton describes his experience of a thrilling but perilous pastime, the descent in a small hand car of a wonderful mountain railway in Peru.

"As a matter of fact," he writes, referring to the title of the article, "it is 100; but, for the sake of a title, the extra six may go—100 are enough at any rate for purposes of illustration. These hundred odd miles are to be found on the Ferro-Carril Central of Peru, commonly called the Oroya railway, and they are to be found nowhere else."

"This Oroya railway is a very wonderful line indeed. It not only climbs higher than any other railway in the world, but also distinguishes itself in a variety of other ways incidentally referred to hereafter. But the accomplishment with which I was chiefly concerned is this—that it provides the only road in the world which a man on wheels can travel over 100 miles by his own momentum and practically at any pace to which the fiend of recklessness may urge him."

"The object of what is here written is to trace the sensations born of a run down from the summit of the Oroya railway, 15,000 feet above sea level, to the verge of the Pacific. You start under the eye of the eternal snows, and you finish among humming birds and palms. You start sick with the unspeakable sickness of sorroche, and you finish in the ecstasy of an exultation too great for words."

"The gods of Olympus were worped beside the man who has during the last three hours controlled his car from the Paso de Galera to Callao, for it is in the control that lies the joy, as in other things apart from car running. To sit beside the brakeman is good, but to drop the brakeman on a friendly siding and grasp the lever in your own firm but not too exacting hand is to sup a liberal foretaste of the joys of heaven.—Pearson's Magazine.

A Lincoln Reason.

Speaking of gray hair puts me in mind of Bates—Attorney General Bates, you know—and of one of Lincoln's remarks. We were all going one day out from Washington to Tennallytown—the president, Secretary Chase, Mr. Bates and myself—to see General McClellan review the Pennsylvania reserves. Bates' hair, I noticed, had retained its original dark color in perfect freshness, while his beard was almost as white as mine is now. It was an exception to the usual law, and I asked Mr. Bates after he had spoken of the peculiarity, if he knew any special reason for it. He said he didn't, but the president exclaimed laughingly, "Why, don't you know? It's because he uses his chin more than he does his head."—Era.

Misinterpreted.

A Presbyterian minister said at a meeting of the Chicago presbytery that the book of discipline of the church is "the worst book ever published," referring apparently to errors and ambiguities.

"That's right," responded a voice from the rear of the room, but when a gray haired brother arose to protest a wave of laughter swept through the assembly and ended the incident.

Another Her Thief.

Jenkins Evans, a man who had been in the employ of the Gwin Mining Company for five years and was a trusted employe, was suspicious for some time of stealing ore from the mine. He quit work, it appears, last November and went over into Amador county near Volcano with his family, where he engaged in placer mining. Time finally developed sufficient evidence to satisfy the management of the Gwin company that its suspicions were not groundless, so action was taken. Sheriff Gregory, armed with a search warrant, went to Evans' house and there found a quantity of ore boxed up and ready for shipment to some reduction works, so the host was placed under arrest. In due course of time he admitted the theft but pleaded for mercy. As he is an old man, crippled up with rheumatism, and his wife is an invalid, Superintendent McClure was inclined to be lenient and permitted him to plead guilty to petty larceny. This he did and was fined $40, which he paid.—Calaveras Chronicle.

"I sleep well enough at night, And the blameless appetite Ever mortal man possessed."

Riley's farmer is the very picture of a man advanced in years, yet in the enjoyment of perfect health. A good appetite, good digestion and sound sleep, are the chief factors in a vigorous old age. Life is sustained by food, when it is properly digested and assimilated. When the digestive system fails, there is a loss of nutrition which soon shows itself in physical weakness, nervousness, sleeplessness, etc.

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It strengthens the body, and the only way possible, by enabling the assimilation of the nutrition extracted from food.

"I used ten bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and several vials of his Pleasant Pellets a year ago this spring, and have had no trouble with indigestion since," writes Mr. W. T. Thompson, of Townsend, Broadwater Co., Montana. "I used to feel how thankful I am for the relief, as I had suffered so much and it seemed that the doctors could do me no good. I got down to 125 pounds, and was not able to work at all. Now I weigh nearly 200 and can do a day's work on the farm. I have recommended your medicine to several, and they all say they have a good word to say for Dr. Pierce and his medicine."

ROAD SPRINKLING.

Our Sutter Creek cotemporary is urging, for experimental purposes, the sprinkling with water of five miles of roadway between Jackson and Ione, and oil treatment of another five miles. This is merely to ascertain by practical test which method is the cheaper and the better. We must remark that our cotemporary is not at all modest in its demands. It seems to have very inflated ideas as to what can be accomplished by the supervisors with the very limited amount of money available for road work this season. Think of it! The entire distance between Martell's station and Ione to be treated with either oil or water, and the treatment to be of such a thorough nature that it shall be an absolute and practical demonstration of the comparative merits of the two systems. To believe that a better showing might have been made on this thoroughfare with the funds available in years past, is not unreasonable, but to harbor the notion that the entire distance can be exhaustively treated in one season—and that too a period of ebb tide in road finances—is about the wildest dream that has been indulged in for many years on this question of absorbing interest. No doubt supervisors have been expected to do great things in the past with the road money at their command, but this fanciful flight is a masterpiece in its way. We assume that the idea has been advanced in good faith, still we have no hesitation in saying that if the recommendation were attempted to be carried out, it would prove the most disastrous and wasteful expenditure of public funds ever witnessed on that veritable sink of the taxpayers' money. We are satisfied the three supervisors who have charge of the road in question will pay little heed to such well-meant, but evidently ill-digested advice. Had the suggestion applied to half a mile of roadway to be treated in the manner proposed, there would have been some plausibility in it, but to include ten miles trips the normal understanding completely. It is well established that oil poured on any ordinary roadway, without a careful and thorough preparation of the road bed beforehand, is simply a reckless waste of money. No one will have the hardihood to contend that the Ione road, or any single mile or quarter of a mile of it, is in proper shape for the application of oil. To prepare five miles of it, by grading and turnpiking it, would consume more money than the sum total in the road funds of all three interested districts combined. When the oiling experiment is tried in this county, we trust it will be done under such conditions that, in the light of the experience of other counties with the process, will justify the conclusion that it is a full and fair test of that method. A quarter of a mile properly treated is worth more from a practical standpoint than ten miles of slipshod, go-as-you-please monkey business.

GET REGISTERED.

The registration of voters is proceeding very slowly. Not 20 per cent of the voting population of the county is enrolled at present. The law requiring re-registration every year is pernicious and harmful to counties like Amador. It may be necessary in San Francisco and other large cities, but here it accomplishes no good, and the only practical outcome is to cause a number of citizens to be disfranchised through failure to register. A new register every four or six years is quite often enough here. However, we have to face the law as it is; and therefore again urge upon every republican to get registered at the earliest moment. Lose no time in applying to the county clerk or one of his deputies in the respective towns. Republicans must remember that the machinery of registration is in the hands of democrats. All the registration officers are of the democratic faith. Under these circumstances, it may be expected that efforts will be made to get democrats in the voting line, while indifference is manifested whether republicans are enrolled or not. Of course, any citizen entitled to vote will be enrolled on application, but as this is the year of a general state and county election, it is not likely that any special effort will be made by democratic officials to get republicans registered. Under these conditions, it behooves republicans to organize at once in every township, and appoint a committee to see that every republican finds a place on the great register. If a special fund has been created to hire a suitable man in every town to attend to this important business, it will be money well invested. The republican county central committee should be called together at an early date, and take action on this vital question.

The primary election law passed by the last legislature is not applicable to Amador county. Its provisions can only be made applicable by a majority of votes cast in favor of its adoption at a special election called for that purpose. Such an election is not likely to be called in this or any other county in the state not directly affected by the law. Therefore, both parties will be left free to follow the course heretofore adopted in selecting delegates to state and county conventions. Amador county is to be congratulated in escaping the infliction of the primary law. It is not only an expensive luxury to the taxpayers in general, but it is extremely doubtful whether it will accomplish any reform even in cities or counties where it is made mandatory. We do not approve of the idea of putting a legal straight jacket upon political parties in the vain hope of making them conduct their affairs on the square.

Of Interest to the Public.

BERKELEY, May 1, 1902.

To the Foreman, Sierra Foothill Experiment Station, Jackson, Amador county, Cal.

Dear Sir:

There has been manifest a growing tendency on the part of the general public to visit the experiment stations on Sunday, chiefly for sight-seeing and picnicking. The stations welcome all visitors, especially those interested in agriculture, but as a rule the farmers can as easily come on a week day.

You will therefore lock the gates of the station on Sunday, place notices in the local newspapers, and print this order in the local newspapers, so that all who may come on a week day or week end will, without fail, be on the station to receive and give special attention to visitors, but you will also understand that visitors are welcome on every week day.

As the fruit season is again approaching, the suggestions formerly given, but to some extent carelessly enforced, are now made mandatory, as follows:

1. Fruit, flowers, vegetables, etc., are not to be given away, excepting as single specimens gathered by the foreman. The value of a record is destroyed when hap hazard fruit gathering is permitted.

2. After the records are made, there is, of course, surplus fruit. The foreman is entitled to all that he needs for his own use; the rest, as heretofore, is to be sold, and the proceeds turned into the "Sale Fund" for the use of the department.

(Signed) E. W. HILGARD, Director.

The foreman of the experiment station desires to call public attention to the above orders, and to say that he will make a point of being on hand to receive visitors every Wednesday.

J. H. BARBER, Foreman.

Like a Drowning Man.

"Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely go," writes Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Novato, Texas. "I took quantities of cod liver oil and other medicines but nothing helped me. As a drowning man grabs at a straw I grabbed at Kodol. I felt an improvement at once, and after a few bottles am sound and well."

Kodol is the only preparation which exactly reproduces the natural digestive juices, and consequently is the only one which digests any good food and cures any form of stomach trouble. Kerr's Pharmacy, Jackson.

A Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Dr. Endicott and Mrs. Dr. Gall had a narrow escape from serious injury on Monday afternoon. They were in the yard in the rear of Dr. Gall's residence. Mrs. Endicott was in the act of mounting one of Dr. Gall's horses preparatory to taking a little exercise. She is an expert rider, but was placed at her foot in the stirrup, the box or chair upon which she was standing gave way, and she fell backward. The animal, gentle but high spirited, was frightened, and commenced prancing around, placing the lady in a precarious position. Fortunately the horse was tied, and Mrs. Gall, in her efforts to control him had her foot stepped on, and painfully bruised. Their outcries brought assistance quickly, and the horse was soon quieted, but not before Mrs. Endicott was severely shaken up and considerably bruised. She was confined to bed for three days, and is still suffering considerably from the accident.

Assemblyman Fred L. Stewart was in Jackson Monday, seeing his many friends here. He came up from Oakland to attend the Ione picnic Saturday, and took advantage of the opportunity thus afforded of visiting Sutter Creek and Jackson. He returned to Ione Tuesday morning. He is considering the advisability of opening a law office in Jackson. The straightforward and consistent course which he took in the last legislature commended him to the people of Amador county generally, irrespective of party. No representative of this county has ever had so much success in his legislative career as F. L. Stewart. His ability was recognized by both parties, and his voice and influence were exerted in behalf of right. We hope he will conclude to remain with us, and make the county seat his future home.

SMALLPOX AT BEAR RIVER.

The County Health Officer Makes a Difficult Trip to that Camp.

On Saturday last word was brought to Jackson that a case of smallpox had made its appearance in the Standard Electric Company's camp at Bear river, distant about 40 miles from Jackson, and sealed with a barrier of snow to the depth of from six to eight feet.

Dr. Gall, however, started at five o'clock to make the arduous trip. He first drove to Volcano, and getting a change of horses there, started for Ham's station, reaching that point at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. From there to Bear river is ten or twelve miles, with the snowy mantle fully six feet deep. How to get over this white desert was the question. He tried the expert on snow shoes, but not being an expert in that mode of traveling, he soon became convinced that it was a flat failure as far as he was concerned. Finally he made a trip on a sled, traveled by moonlight, and reached Bear river about 8 o'clock. He found the smallpox patient to be a colored man named Jackson, a cook formerly employed at the Page camp. It was a case of the mild type, and he was well taken care of. He went up to Bear river with the crowd that started about two weeks ago. He had been in Stockton previously, and it is supposed that he contracted the disease in that city, although the symptoms had not developed when he left there. Dr. Gall prescribed for him, and left word with the authorities there as to the course to pursue. After spending a couple of hours, he began to think of getting out. By this time the warm sun and the breeze had softened the snow considerably, so that sliding was not to be thought of. He was advised to wait until Monday morning, as the night had been frozen hard during the night. But the doctor was not in favor of this delay. So he started out on foot, making most of the journey alone. It was the hardest feat of pedestrianism that he ever undertook, and the patient was in his mind, or through life. However, he reached Ham's in safety, although very much exhausted, and was driven from there to Volcano and thence to Jackson, reaching home Sunday night.

Dr. Gall arrived about 15 miles from Bear river, working under difficulties on account of the snow and ice. The water in the storage reservoir is covered with ice several inches thick, and upon this he had to tread. The weather has been very cold there of late, and a number of the men who went up recently have left, on account of the cold, or for other reasons.

Picardo Again in Hard Luck.

A. Picardo has suffered another loss the past week. On Saturday Jos. Moon borrowed a saddle horse to go to the Ione picnic. He remained over night, and placed the horse in the barn with three others belonging to Picardo. When he went to the stable next morning his riding horse was missing. The saddle and bridle were left, but a strap which the animal had round its neck was gone. Whether the horse was maliciously stolen or not is a problem, but the fact is that the animal was the popular opinion, and there is nothing definite to offset it now. It is possible, however, that the horse was carelessly tied and the door left unfastened, resulting in the horse straying away from its owner's place. The animal belonged to one of his freight teams, and was good in saddle as well as harness.

Fisher Took a Shot at Him.

Another case of supposed intended robbery occurred Friday night on the Hamilton tract, at the residence of Ernest Fisher, who is in charge of Geo. L. Thomas' butcher shop during the proprietor's absence. At a late hour his attention was attracted by something working at his back door. It seemed that the party was trying to unlock the door. Fisher suspected that robbery was the motive, and his first thought was to fire through the door, but he was dissuaded from this course, however, by the advice of his wife. The man quit in a short time, probably finding that those inside were alert, and Fisher got his gun and fired at him as he disappeared in the distance. It is not probable that he was hit.

A Sad Affliction.

Mamie Tam, eldest child of Mr. and Mrs. William Tam, died Wednesday evening, after a brief illness of pneumonia. For several days she had been of life and death, as developed by that dangerous disease, contended for the mastery, and the outcome was doubtful. Wednesday the crisis of the malady was reached, and it became only too evident to the anxious parents that nature was exhausted, and a fatal termination inevitable. The victim was a remarkably bright and intelligent girl, and a general favorite with those who knew her. She had suffered from a previous attack of the same disease, and this probably left its impress upon the system and reduced the power of resistance against the second attack. The parents are heartbroken over the loss of their first-born, and the sympathy of the entire community is drawn toward them in this hour of their bereavement.

Electric Plant Started.

The Taboado reservoir is being slowly filled with water, preparatory to the starting of the big electric plant. The electric machinery has been running on a small scale for several days, for test purposes only. Everything runs smoothly and efficiently. Yesterday was the time fixed for the supply of power from this source, but it was hardly expected that the great plant would be on a full working basis by that time. A few days more will no doubt see this great enterprise, upon which millions of dollars have been expended, in full operation.

Church Anniversary.

The second anniversary of St. Augustine's Episcopal church, Jackson, will be held in the Masonic hall on Friday, the 9th of May, at 7:30 p. m. Reports will be given from the different offices in connection with the church, also a brief history of the church under the rectorship of the Rev. Wm. Tuson. There will be a program, after which ice cream and cake will be served.

Returned to the Old Schedule.

The Volcano stage has returned to the old schedule. It leaves Jackson at 7 in the morning, and Volcano about 2:30 in the afternoon, arriving in Jackson about 5:30. This has been the time table for the summer months for many years. The new schedule is being used recently by the department, requiring the mail to leave Jackson after the arrival of the Ione stage, would have been a serious inconvenience to the contractor; in fact it would have been impossible for him to have to it at the contract price. A presentation of the facts to the Washington authorities has resulted in the revocation of the proposed schedule, and a return to the old-fashioned ways.

WEEKLY EVENING RESUME

Good Ore Encountered at the Bunker Hill.

More Stamps Dropping at the Central Eureka—Surveying the Sargent Mine.

KENNEDY—The matter of the erection of the new hoist at the east shaft of the Kennedy is still under consideration by the directors. The construction of the hoist, and the erection of the additional mill, have been definitely decided upon. The plans for the hoist, submitted by V. S. Garbarini, are before the company, but have not been finally accepted. There is no doubt, however, that the work will be undertaken the coming summer.

The mines are contracting for large quantities of round timbers to be delivered from the mountains of this county this year. Owing to the advance in the price of lumber in the city, it is expected that nearly all the mining timbers will be furnished by the local dealers this year. This means a big business in the logging camps of the mountains, and a heavy teaming season all along the line.

BUNKER HILL.—It is pleasing to be able to state that the prospects of this mine have materially improved during the past week, and the stockholders are encouraged at the outlook. On the 800 level the drift has broken into a body of ore, estimated to be worth at least $10 per ton. The dimensions of this ledge are not known at present, as it has just been encountered. It seems to be widening out, however, giving grounds to hope that it will prove a good milling proposition in size as well as quality.

CENTRAL EUREKA.—The additional 20 stamps were started up Wednesday night. Owing to the deficiency of water caused by some obstruction in the pipe, only one half of the additional milling capacity was kept in motion. W. R. Thomas, the superintendent, informs us that he expected to have the entire mill of 40 stamps in full operation yesterday. The mine is looking well, and the rock in sight is sufficient to keep the 40 stamps running constantly.

SARGENT.—At this mine at Middle Bar adjoining the Hardenburgh on the south, the preliminary survey was run last Saturday. The object of this was to ascertain whether the lode line ran through the center of the claim. This point being satisfactorily determined, the company is prepared to go ahead and spend considerable money in development work. W. R. Thomas was in Jackson yesterday, and deposited the money called for by the bond, and the deed was expected to be placed in escrow the same day.

Runaway Accident.

On Sunday evening, while the Jackson band was giving a concert from the porch of Lemin's saloon, a serious runaway accident occurred. A double seated buggy, in which were two young ladies of Sutter, and two young men of the Oneida, whose names we have not been able to ascertain, one of the latter driving, ran full tilt against an obstacle on the roadside near Parson's residence, and the horses were thrown out of their harness. The driver, a young man, was killed. The force of the collision was sufficient to break the horses loose from the vehicle, and they started down the road toward Jackson at a furious gallop. No one in the buggy was thrown out or injured in any way. Opposite the residence of W. S. Williams, the principal of the Jackson school, stood a cart containing Mrs. Williams and child, and Mr. Williams, hearing the danger coming, held the horse to prevent its taking flight. One of the runaway horses, however, collided with one of the wheels of the cart, striking against the tire with sufficient force to break its neck. It died in a few minutes. The collision carried the cart all of twenty feet from the place of contact, and threw Mrs. Williams, with the child in her arms, into front. The child escaped without injury, but Mrs. Williams has been confined to her bed most of the time since the accident, under the care of Dr. Endicott. She is suffering from a wrenched back, but no serious results are apprehended. Her mother, Mrs. Taylor, came over from Amador City early in the week, and took care of her. She was able to be around at last accounts. The horse that was killed was a valuable animal from the livery stable of W. Kerr in Sutter Creek, and was valued at $100.

Shall We Celebrate.

A meeting is hereby called, at the request of a number of business men, to meet in the Ledger office on Saturday evening, May 3, at 8 o'clock, to consider the propriety of having a celebration on the fourth of July in Jackson. The prevailing opinion is to have a celebration, but the business men who are chiefly interested, turn out on the occasion and discuss the proposition. It is well to come to an understanding early, so that ample time may be given toward making the necessary arrangements. Last year the matter was taken hold of rather late, and although a very satisfactory program was provided, it would have been improved upon had more time been allowed. Don't fall to attend the meeting to-morrow evening.

A. O. U. W. Reception to Grand Master Workman E. A. Freeman.

An interesting entertainment was given in Love's hall on Tuesday evening by Jackson Lodge No. 138, A. O. U. W., in honor of E. A. Freeman, who has recently been elevated to the highest office in the order in the state, as Grand Master Workman. His brother members of the local lodge considered it a fitting recognition of the character and ability of the distinguished brother who has thus received the distinction of office, and of the honor thereby conferred upon the local lodge and the people of Jackson generally, to celebrate the event by a public reception. The hall was well filled, and tastefully decorated for the occasion. Over the stage appeared the words "Welcome" in gilt letters, surmounted by the initials of the order, "A. O. U. W." Jas. E. Dye as chairman opened the proceedings with an address, eulogizing the honored guest, and congratulating him and the lodge upon his recent elevation. The following program was then carried out: Music by Rothe's orchestra; recitation in character by Ora Anzore and Oda Ginoebio; which was encored; address, Geo. Gordon; music by the orchestra; Dr. C. H. Gibbons' recitation, Johnny Love, which elicited a round of applause, and was encored; music by the orchestra. The literary treat was brought to a close by an able address by E. A. Freeman. He stated that he had recently traveled over a great portion of the state during the past month, in the interest of the order; California was beautiful at all times, but especially so at this season of the year. He found the people in place with in this golden realm so attractive to him as Jackson, his birthplace and home. For the honored position he had attained he was indebted not so much to his own individual efforts, as to the help and assistance in the lodge who had so nobly worked with him in his efforts for advancement. After the regular program a social dance was given, and was participated in by a large number of young folks.

Boys' Franks.

A pair of boys, Dudley Laughton and Nash Barton, left their homes in Jackson about 9 o'clock Tuesday night, each on horseback, and started off to face the world on their own account. Next morning the boys and the horses were missing, and the fact of their disappearance became widely circulated. A little investigation by constable Kay revealed the reason of their sudden departure. It seems the two boys, with their imagination aflame at the attractions of the Ione picnic, Saturday, set their hearts upon attending that festival. Friday night they bagged some chickens, some 14 in number, and disposed of them at cut rates to the Ione picnic, and gave another boy, Chas. Ruge, to deliver them and Chas. Ruge. The amount realized from the transaction was $5.40. With money in their pockets they took in the picnic, and enjoyed themselves as much as their parents could have doubted being somewhat marred by the apprehension of coming trouble on account of their commercial adventure. The disappearance of the chickens led to investigation, and Ruge went out to where the officer all he knew about the transaction. The boys sought safety in flight, and traveled all night toward the south. Ruge was to follow them, but he was persuaded that was useless to run, so he concluded to wait for them at Ione, and get them to return home if possible. The parents of the boys were anxious about them. To arrange for an amicable settlement about the chickens was not a pleasant thing, but Ruge went forth to undertake them. The welcome tidings that their return home would not be attended with such dire consequences as their imaginations pictured. He found them at Oakdale, Stanislaus county, over 40 miles from Jackson. The romance of facing the world on their own account had worn off, and they were speedily convinced that home was a much better place for them under the circumstances than the one they had chosen to leave. They were directed. Besides, their horses were ragged out, and they themselves were also tired of the traveling business. So they turned their faces homeward. They reported the Thursday afternoon, and reported the fact that they had taken, and making the trip from this point—ten miles distant—on foot. Constable Kay went forth to look for the boys in the direction of LaTrobe and Sacramento, but they beat him on the home run.

I. O. O. F. Picnic at Ione.

A few days previous to the advertised time of holding the 83d anniversary of the formation of Oddfellows in America, April 26th, at Ione, the weather was a gloomy aspect, and by many it was feared the picnic would have to be postponed, but the weather picked up, and the day would be suitable for outdoor amusements and the grass dry enough to allow of sitting down in it to a picnic spread.

Bright and early on last Saturday morning vehicles of Jackson with gay young and old occupants were seen leaving town, and an informant tells that all the rigs in town were engaged for that day. Arriving in town a procession of Odd Fellows, headed by the Ione Cornet Band, was seen moving toward the old river grounds, where upon arriving a literary program was satisfactorily carried out, when old and young broke up into little groups to enjoy a picnic dinner.

The afternoon was given over to amusements, and in the evening a grand ball was had under the auspices of the Ione Cornet Band in the Pavilion in town, which was crowded with dancers, and thus ended a most successful affair.

The airship in course of construction in Ione could not be got in readiness to sail through the air, and of course many who had gone thither to witness its ascent were disappointed.

Molino Homestead Contest Ended.

The case of the homestead contest of A. Recheillo vs. V. Molino has been finally decided in favor of the contestant, Recheillo. This matter has been pending in the land office for over two years. Recheillo secured a decision in the Sacramento land office. The case was appealed to the Commissioner of the general land office, who affirmed the judgment of the local office. This was deemed conclusive and an appeal to the secretary of the interior was taken. This is the court of last resort in land office matters. The secretary, however, decided that the evidence was ample to sustain the judgment of the Commissioner, and the decision was again affirmed. An application for a review of the proceedings was the only recourse left the homestead claimant, and a period of thirty days was allowed in which to seek in the land office. The respondent, however, realized the hopelessness of continuing the struggle. On the 14th of April the Sacramento land office received a notification from the general land office that the case having elapsed, without further action on the part of respondent, the decision in favor of Recheillo was made final and Molino's entry ordered cancelled. Webb has represented Recheillo all through the contested case, and all correspondence on the contestant's side has been conducted through him. W. A. Newcum, the present receiver, and acting register for Thomas Fraser, who is incapacitated by reason of sickness, thought proper to direct the final notice of cancellation to A. Recheillo at Jackson, "in care of R. Webb." What motive influenced the official in thus switching from the usual path, it becomes a question as to when this time commenced to run under the peculiar circumstances surrounding this particular case. This homestead contest has been the most remarkable case of the kind that ever occurred in Amador county, and the incident connected with its wind-up form the most remarkable chapter of its history.

Shudders At His Past.

"I recall now with horror," says Mail Carrier Burnett Mann, of Levanna, O., "my three years of suffering from Kidney trouble. I was hardly ever free from dach or acute pains in my back. To stop this I used Electric Bitters. I felt tired, worn out, about ready to give up, when I began to use Electric Bitters, but six bottles completely cured me and made me feel like a new man." They're unvalued to regulate Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by D. B. Spagnoli. Only 50c.

SHENANDOAH VALLEY.

SHENANDOAH, April 29. The public school closed in a blaze of red-fire last Friday evening. For days little had been talked or thought of but "entertainment," and the eventful night brought out a full complement of food parents, relatives and friends. The little folks, under Miss Tierney's supervision, were thoroughly "up" in their parts, and every number throughout the program kept the large audience amused and interested. A number of lunch baskets were then auctioned off by S. K. Davis, and appeared to be a very successful affair. The divine might of the special basket was most wished for. Ice cream and cake were sold and both disappeared at a most satisfactory rate, netting a neat sum for the benefit of the school house.

Miss Tierney went to her home near Ione, Sunday, for her vacation. Mrs. Stella Cushman took her departure this morning for the Tuscan Springs, Shasta county, where she will spend the summer.

Charles Bell came home Sunday from an extended stay in San Francisco. He was accompanied from Placerville by his uncle, G. S. Estey, and wife.

Miss Rowley of Mt. Auburn, El Dorado county, has been visiting Miss Effie Spira for a few days.

The rain last week "put a fresh face on the prospect," especially where the grass had begun to turn yellow.

SHAN.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Offer it "hang on" through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, whooping cough, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, of Ione, Cal. "I never found any other so sure and so quick."
